

THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY PRESENTS

MY JOURNEY: Appalachia, Civil Rights Activism and Revisionist Scholarship

MONDAY

April 13, 2015, 5 PM

Toyota Room, Howard H. Baker Jr.
Center for Public Policy

Reception to follow

WILMA A. DUNAWAY, Professor, School of Public & International Affairs, Virginia Tech University

Distinguished Alumna Dunaway has a unique biography connected to Appalachia, the University of Tennessee where she earned three degrees (BS, MA and PhD), all in sociology, and the City of Knoxville. As a racially mixed undergraduate she entered UT in 1962 during the second year of the university's voluntary desegregation. She served as Associate Director of the Knoxville Area Urban League from 1969 to 1979 and was involved in Knoxville's federal court case about school desegregation.

A COLLABORATION WITH THE OFFICE OF
THE VICE CHANCELLOR OF DIVERSITY
AND THE DEPARTMENTS OF
ANTHROPOLOGY AND HISTORY

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES